Information Sought on Holey Dollars and Dumps

This year sees the 150th Anniversary of the authorization of the important holey dollars and dumps of South Wales. J. Hunt Deacon, N. C. Fleming and Ray Jewell of Australia have been working on a historical catalog of these pieces with hope that it can be published in the commemorative year. However, there is information which has eluded them.

Regarding the dumps, particulars by varieties from those quoted by Lewis, or any outstanding peculiarities, would be appreciated by N. C. Fleming, 22 Fraser St., Westfield, New South Wales.

Regarding the method of manufacture of the holey dollars, it is safe to say that no two of them are alike respects. Some 145 have been identified but there are others not yet identified. Ray Jewell, in an article in Australian Numismatic Journal, described two obverses and two reverses which differ in the countermarking, and also noted some forged countermarking. Illustrations of these pieces are mailed to owners of holey dollars which are not yet recorded, on request.

Identical pieces have been noted without the detailed information requested; and the assistance of all numismatists is solicited so that the catalog can be reasonably complete. In following list of information requested, "D" denotes description wanted, "L" denotes locations wanted. In the final work, names of owners are not to appear but are needed for local returns of location and for listing at the number in public and private collections.)

Three Coins

Dear Mr. Bradfield:

On page 997, of the July '63 The Numismatist, Louis S. Werner, of New York City, advertises for three specific coins, and also inquires for information concerning them. I believe that I can be of assistance, and at the same time give some pertinent information to collectors, through the medium of your pages.

The first coin asked about is a brilliant proof 1853 $20 of the United States Assay Office of Gold, San Francisco. He states that he saw one in the office of a prominent New York dealer a few years ago, and speculates if more than one was struck. He must have seen such a coin in the office of the New Netherlands Coin Co., as we had five "gem" proof specimens of the 900 THOUS. variety for sale, early in the spring of 1958. These were obtained from the direct descendant of an associate of Augustus Humbert, together with two others, which are still in the personal collection of the writer.

All seven coins were perfect, fully brilliant proofs, from highly polished dies and planchets. Each was originally wrapped in an old, yellowed linen handkerchief, upon which was written the weight and alloy. Apparently, these coins were patterns, testing relative amounts of copper alloy, to be added to the native California silver alloyed gold, to strike $20 pieces in the new (for the USAOG) fineness of 900/1000. Each handkerchief indicated that different proportions of silver and copper, constituting the 100 parts of these metals added to the gold, were used for these coins. Unfortunately, the owner retained the handkerchiefs. Visually, the differences in ratio of the silver and copper used, cannot be told. However, we weighed the seven coins, with the following results: 514.5, 515, 516, 516.25 (2), 516.75, 518.25 grains. (A regular U.S. double eagle, 900 fine, weighs 516 grains.)

Two of the seven proofs we had are now in a Texas collection, having been purchased from the late Jake Bell, and Stack's, to whom we indirectly sold them. A third is in the collection of a California pioneer gold specialist, and a fourth is owned by a Pennsylvania collector of $20 gold coins. The fifth piece was sold to dealer Mike Kolman; we do not know its present whereabouts.

All seven of the proofs that we had and have, were from identical obverse and reverse dies. The reverse die can be identified by a small "tit" on the upper part of the right stand of the "N" in UNITED, and a series of small dashes above "CA" of CALIFORNIA. Since 1958, we have obtained several semiproof or "first-strike" specimens of the 1853, USAOG, 900 fine, $20s, from living relatives and friends of the gentleman with whom we first did business. Some of these pieces were quite deceptive, but none was absolute proofs. Mr. Werner states that proofs are not listed, as such, in Yeoman's Guide Book. However, on page 224, of the current (17th) edition, a proof impression of the 1853

$20 of the USAOG, 900 THOUS. variety is illustrated. From the Guide Book halftone, it is apparent that various dies were used to strike proofs, as the reverse die of the Whitman illustrated piece is the one with a tiny dash between "TE" of UNITED. The first public offering of one of these coins in proof, was made as lot 397, of the George F. Seavey sale, by Bangs, Merwin, & Co., June 21, 22, 1864 (eleven years after the proof alloy trials were struck in California). Also, refer to the 1944 sale of Jake Bell's gold coins, by Stack's, and the 1954 Farouk (Palace Collections) auction listing.

The second coin that Mr. Werner inquires about, is an uncirculated 1861 CSA half dollar, not a restrike, allegedly shown at the Richmond, Va. MANA Convention in 1957. To my knowledge, no authentic (original) Confederate States of America half dollar was displayed at the MANA meeting, which, incidentally, was in 1956 (not 1957). Only one original CSA half dollar is known, approaching mint state. That is the AU-55 specimen, now in the ANS coll., weighing a full 192 grains. Of the four pieces struck, two others can be accounted for. One is owned by Eric P. Newman, and weighs 190.5 grains. The third known example is in the collection of the writer, and weighs 189 grains. The fourth piece is still unknown, and if an uncirculated one exists, I would be happy to pay $20,000 or more, for it.

The third coin mentioned in Mr. Werner's ad is a 1943 copper (bronze) cent. He states: "This particular coin was attributed to be a genuine cent struck in copper, by none other, the coin expert who worked for a prominent N.Y.C. dealer recently, so described and catalogued in an auction sale not long ago." We do not know what specimen of the several genuine 1943 Philadelphia Mint bronze cents Mr. Werner is talking about, but New Netherlands Coin Co. sold the last example offered publicly, to my knowledge. This identical specimen, and our ad in the March last issue of The Numismatist, concerning same, is ably written up by James G. Johnson, in the July 5th issue of Coin World.

It is my hope that the above information might prove to be of interest and value. — JOHN J. FORD, JR.
